

The 1050 New Testament Commandments

The 1050 New Testament Laws contain 245 of the 613 Old Testament Laws which are summarized in the 10 Commandments which rest on 2 Pillars. Love Yahweh God. Love your kinsmen/women. The Golden Rule, the Law of Christ, and the Royal Law are all precepts that are found in the Torah of Moses.

You will notice that over 300 OT laws are missing from this list. Why? Because they were 'done away with'. Done away with? Yes. All the ceremonial ordinances contained in commandments were fulfilled by The Christ, so there are no more rituals, sacrifices, oblations, or priesthood.

The ordinances of the priesthood served their purpose as a trainer, and they were a foreshadow of the atoning sacrifice Jesus Christ made. The sacrifices and oblations were to cease, as prophesied in Daniel 9:27.

The rest of the OT laws are still in operation, as no government or kingdom can operate without them. Those would be the commandments and instructions for vows, criminal law, agricultural, land, clothing, and food laws, feast days, property rights, laws for rulers, wars, servants, the poor, Jubilee laws for release of debts and return of property, business practice laws, judicial laws, restitution and punishment, and marriage laws. All of which are given to guide us in everyday affairs, the treatment of kinsmen, and the governing of society.

These laws are holy, just and true. These laws are eternal.

THE WORD LAW REALLY MEANS 'TEACHING', 'INSTRUCTIONS', 'DIRECTIONS', AND INFORMATION WHICH CAN PREVENT PUNISHMENT BY DIRECTING US TO AVOID THE TRAPS OF SIN.

Paul said that “through the Law comes knowledge of sin” (Romans 3:20). John agrees when he says, “sin is lawlessness” (1John 3:4). Moses said that “it will be righteousness for us if we are careful to follow all this commandment before Yahweh our God” (Deuteronomy 6:25) — confirming that keeping the Law accounts us as righteous.

The Torah is to regulate the whole of the outward conduct, and to regulate the heart.

The plan of the law is to develop the secret feelings of the heart. The sinner should be induced to take a remedy. That remedy would be to acknowledge you are a sinner, repent, and change your ways and your thinking.

Without the law, you would not be convinced that you sin, and you would not be filled with the sense of divine wrath on account of it, and therefore you would not repent, and so you could not be saved from the penalty of sin, which is eternal death.

Repentance brings acquittal. Continuance in 'The Way' is the justification of the Christian.

Grace in conversion is glorified by putting a stop to the reign of sin. Grace teaches men not to live in sin, but to abstain from it.

Since Torah means 'instruction' and 'teaching', the whole Bible is Torah.

Two eternal rights of the redeemed:

1. Right to the tree of life
2. Right to enter the New Jerusalem

So we see that these are mostly all moral precepts, all of which were spoken, written, and given in the Old Testament, to the patriarchs, and in the Law and the Prophets.

Can we follow all God's laws perfectly? No. But it is the effort He is looking at. It is the willingness and sincerity in following them to the best of our ability. When we do miss the mark of duty, we repent and ask for forgiveness. Forgiveness from our kinsmen/women if we've sinned against them, and for forgiveness from our High Priest Jesus Christ Yahshua.

When the Bible teaches us to 'be perfect', this does not mean perfectly following all these commandments. It's referring to being perfect in your heart. This is what 'circumcision of the heart' is. It involves a love for God's laws, because they were given in love and are designed to keep us out of trouble, and from causing trouble. It involves a willingness to obey. It involves not only outward action, but also the attitude of the mind. This is called obeying the 'spirit of the law'.

Love and law go together, just like faith and works.

Your inward faith drives your outward faith, which becomes evident through "righteous acts", which are rewarded as the white robes worn in heaven.

So having faith in Jesus, which is inward faith, is demonstrated by keeping the commandments of God, which is outward faith. Faith in Jesus is important, but we must also have the faith of Jesus.

Faith without works is dead. The devil's believe too.

Law without love is sin. Anyone can follow the 'letter of the law'. But not many follow the 'spirit of the law'.

The 'churches' have 'done away with' the law. Society rejects God's Laws.

So looking at all these commandments, do you really believe the law was 'done away with'? Were all these commandments 'done away with'? How could they be? Jesus Christ gave them, and taught them to His disciples, teaching them to teach these commandments and instructions to Christians.

These are all found in the OT laws and in the prophets. The laws, commandments, and Word of God, which was given to our ancestors for an inheritance, and a guide to find life, and to be transmitted to generation after generation, for a thousand generations.

If you noticed, there were no ceremonial ordinances and oblations in this NT list of commandments.

Because only the ceremonial ordinances contained in the OT commandments were 'done away with'.

The ritual ceremonial ordinances were added because of transgressions, and they were the manner in which the sins of the people were appeased, until the time of Christ when He fulfilled this ordinance in His own sacrifice. Now the rituals were no longer the mode of justification, which was only temporary anyway and never could save anyone from the penalty of death. But now through Jesus Christ, the Mediator of a Better Covenant, we have an eternal High Priest to whom we find forgiveness and justification.

The moral precepts of the laws are still the duty of man, and they are the instructions which lead you to life and the gates of heaven. You already have salvation. It's up to you to secure it by continuing to walk in The Way.

Jesus connects communion with God with keeping His commandments. When we keep Christ's commandments, we love Him. And when we love Christ, the Father loves us. And whomever the Father loves, Christ loves and reveals Himself to them (John 14:21). So, there is no abiding in Christ's love apart from keeping Christ's commandments (John 15:10).

God's law is a copy of His nature; and it is a declaration of His will. God's law is an expression of His grace. The law is God's plan for His sanctified people to enjoy communion with Him.

The Spirit's work reveals the law which was written in the heart, and it is the work of saints, under divine influence, to copy them over in life, and to show them by conduct and behaviour. We were not born into this world to 'just believe', to seek 'personal salvation', claim we are 'saved', and wait for a 'rapture' with a pork sandwich in our hands.

What is the great reason for life and living? Fear God, keep His commandments, this is the whole duty of man. Ecc 12:13.

We have a lamp that needs to be full, we have a vineyard to be working in, seeds to sow, a Gospel to preach, evil to be eschewed, and a kingdom to be building.

The laws of God are eternal, and they lead us to the promise of eternal life.

Jesus died to pay the price of the penalty of sin, which is eternal death. His work on the Cross cleared the slate and set us at neutral ground with The Father. Now it is up to us to walk in His Ways, and it shall be our righteousness, if we observe to do these commandments.

The more we understand and walk in His precepts the more we secure our salvation. Psalm 119:27/1Pet 1:9,14.

It's time to learn, love, obey, and stand for the laws and commandments of Yahweh our God.

Deuteronomy 33:4 Moses commanded (H6680- instruct) us a law (H8451- torah), even the inheritance of the congregation of Jacob.

'The inheritance of the congregation of Jacob' is a reference to the law, as the children of Israel were given the law and were commanded to keep the law, which was to be valued, not only as a peculiar treasure, but to be considered a possession, an estate, an inheritance, to be continued among them, and to be transmitted to their posterity.

The 'churches' do not know who is who in Scripture, which is why they care not for the OT, the prophets, or the law.

When one understands who true Israel is, then the Bible takes on a whole new meaning.

When one develops a love for the law, and follows it from the heart with sincerity and willingness, then your relationship with God will reach a whole new level.
